NIGHT SESSIONS AT PHOENIX? NO

and the fun of attending the sessions and acting as lawmakers, but they know an extraordinary session would not be popular, and all the members want to come back again. So they are not especially anxious to take any chances along that line if it is possible to avoid them.

When the house the other afternoon had adjourned, and after the lawmakers had been reminded by one or two of the members that almost the entire afternoon the day before had been spent listening to Miss Kate Starnes' speech, it began to dawn upon them that a good deal of real work remains to be done, and that not a great deal of time remains in which to do it. It was then that the subject of night sessions was brought up.

But a majority of the members thought if they spent the days from half past nine to four o'clock attending to their public duties they were doing enough, and they so expressed themselves. Moreover, they made their objections stick, for they killed the night session idea, though it may not stay killed. Another thing, the house decided that henceforth it will get up early in the morning and begin work at nine o'clock.

The legislature has been doing some pretty good work recently. It has passed more measures than usual and has not received so many. The house still has the habit, however, but the number is dwindling and there is a prospect that after next Tuesday, when time it will require a majority vote to get a bill introduced, the number will be brought down to the minimum.

To Regulate Dentistry.
One of the measures just introduced in the house is designed to regulate the practice of dentistry. It is modeled somewhat along the lines of the medical bill so that the requirements of that measure can be made to apply.

To Promote Public Buildings.
Another bill is designed to encourage the erection of federal buildings. It provides that whenever the federal government wants a site for building purposes all it has to do is to come along and take it. This applies, of course, only to state lands, and no condemnation proceedings. The government is given authority in advance to seize the land and erect upon it any kind of building it may desire without formalities.

Second Local Option Bill.
The second local option bill has been put into the hopper this term. It fixes the date for the election somewhat along the line of the one introduced several days ago.

List of Bills Pending.
If all the bills that have been recommended for passage get through, as expected, the governor will soon have quite a busy time again as he will have to sign a number of bills. Following are some of the bills marked for the statute books.

A bill providing for the fumigating house has been voted for in the senate amendments to this measure. The bill makes all the usual holidays legal rest days for this state, and adds Feb. 14, which is Admission day, to the list.

The house is now considering a bill that the United States constitution be amended to provide for the direct election of senators.

A bill creating what are known as supervisory districts—that is, certain districts to be under the exclusive control of the various members of the county boards.

An anti-tipping measure. A bill providing for the fumigating of second hand furniture. The education bill, of which the sewerage feature is one of the most widely discussed parts. It is almost ready for passage. It is likely to get through the house early this week.

A bill providing for the establishment of irrigation districts has been recommended for passage in the house.

Bill Recommended for Passage.
A bill providing for the redemption of property sold for taxes has passed the house.

The senate has recommended the following bills for passage:
Licensing peddlers, creating the office of tax commissioner, the militia code bill, the bill to make an appropriation for the extension of dry farming, the bill providing for an agricultural and horticultural commission.

Lawmakers Will Be Banqueted.
Friday night the legislators and state officials will be the guests of a banquet at the Hotel Adams. The affair will be one of considerable note. It is planned to decorate the banquet hall entirely with roses, of which thousands will be used. This is not so much of a novelty as it might seem, as at this time roses are blooming everywhere. A speaking program will follow the banquet, but it has not yet been arranged.

State Roosevelt Club Formed.
A meeting of some political significance was held in this city Saturday, when delegates representing the Roosevelt clubs of Arizona assembled to perfect their organization. There were nearly 50 in attendance, including a resident member and workers. A permanent organization was effected, with J. P. Cleveland as president, and Messrs. Kelly, of Tucson, treasurer, in addition to the work of organization the committee adopted a series of resolutions pledging the members to work for Roosevelt's nomination.

In the evening the delegates were entertained at dinner at Dwight E. Heard, committee man for Arizona. Addresses were delivered by Sidney Sapp, of Holbrook; J. P. Cleveland, of Tucson; Gila county, and others. Telegrams were read from Governor Hadley, of Missouri; Senator Dixon, of the national campaign committee, and from the Yavapai county Roosevelt club.

TO GIVE MAYPOLE DANCE ON SATURDAY

English Festival to Be Revived by Little Girls in Cleveland Square.

Reviving the old English custom of "bringing in the May," a May pole dance will be given by 16 little girls of the junior Y. W. C. A. on the band stand in Cleveland square Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to which the public is invited to come and enjoy the exhibition free.

The children will dance to music played by the full fourth cavalry band, which will give a concert in the square following the dance. The little girls will be dressed in white and will carry great garlands of yellow and white flowers, the color of the association. They will dance around the May pole, winding the ribbons in the time honored custom that has formed a part of the rustic celebration of this spring festival for many centuries.

The dance is one of the prettiest of the folk dances that have been handed down to us by our Anglo-Saxon ancestors. Its performance in Cleveland square will be something of an innovation in El Paso. The little girls who will take part in the dance are: Myra Jackson, Erma Davis, Sophia Williams, Marie Corvick, Dorothy Vallersten, Louise Veach, Florence Cathcart, Dorothy Williams, Dorothy Evans, Louise Robertson, Wanda Mentzer, Marie Kelly, Dewey Miller, Silvia River, Dorothy Taylor and Florence Marks. The dancing will be under the direction of Mrs. William Hogarth, Miss Zoe LeBaron and Miss Beatrice Morse, the physical director of the Y. W. C. A.

START WEDNESDAY IN SCHOOL CENSUS
City to Get $7 For Each Child of School Age Enumerated.

Under the direction of city school auditor F. E. Sawyer, a corps of four census takers will commence taking the census of children of school age Wednesday morning. The purpose of the census is to determine what appropriation the city of El Paso will receive for its schools during the coming year from the state school fund.

All children between the ages of 5 and 17 years of age of school age, no matter how short a time they have resided in the city and are to be enumerated and the city is to receive about $7 per head for each one reported.

Because of the number of refugees here from Mexico it is expected that the sum received this year will be much greater than heretofore, as these children are also to be included in the census.

The census takers, who are H. A. Dow, H. A. Donnelly, Geo. J. Kitchens and M. R. Dinan, will be sworn in as special officers and those who refuse to give them the desired information will be arrested.

Tailor Made Suits at Cost.
Some handsome unaltered spring suits—a size for most every man. Nearly all the new fabrics are represented in this collection. You can save $10 to $15 by buying one of these. B. V. Pearson, 110 Texas.

Money makes the mare go—and puts a touring car in her place.—From Judge.

Taft Men Confident.
J. L. Hubbell, one of the best informed men politically in the state, is firmly convinced that President Taft will get the Arizona delegation, but on the surface it looks as though the Roosevelt men are in the lead. At an event meeting the latter movement is being made by the Taft supporters. Mr. Hubbell explains that fact by saying the Roosevelt people are placing more reliance on press agent methods. "Just wait until the delegates are chosen and you will see that I am right," Mr. Hubbell says. There is not half the Roosevelt sentiment in this state that many people suppose. There is plenty of it here in Phoenix and in other counties, or there apparently is, but here, as in other places, it is the Roosevelt people who are doing all the talking. When the votes are counted it will be found that the president is much stronger than anybody had supposed.

The leaders of the Taft movement in this state are exultant over the late attitude assumed by the president in replying to the Roosevelt attacks. They say this will do him more good in Arizona than anything else that could have happened.

"He is the one man in all the country to have told the naked truth about the Roosevelt methods," one prominent man said last night. "His late speeches have done him a world of good."

MENTAL ARITHMETIC.

Wink—"I don't know. I worked awful hard before I could even get 'em wrong."—From Judge.
